SIMS SOLICITOUS FOR EFFICIENT NAVY

New York, April 6.—A United public demand for 100 per cent American naval efficiency, ready to meet any national emergency, is the most eloquent tribute that can be paid the men who sacrificed their lives in the world war, Rear Admiral William S. Sims told a patriotic gathering in Town Hall tonight.

The occasion was a "remembrance meeting" under the auspices of the Soldiers and Sailors' club, to honor the veterans of the European conflict and those who died in the allied cause.

Criticizing as "preparation for defeat" in the event of another war, the proposal in congress to cut the naval personnel of 140,000 men in half, Admiral Sims, called upon citizens "as a duty to these gallant men" to notify representatives in Washington of their conviction that naval as well as military forces should be kept "at all times adequately prepared for national defense."

Admiral Sims pointed to "deficiencies in our forces and costly mistakes of the navy department" at the outbreak of, and during the world war as examples by which the nation should profit in the future.

Describing as "epoch-making in its contribution to human progress," the Washington conference which established the 6-2 ratio between the sea forces of Great Britain, the United States and Japan; the admiral declared, however, that the reduction in personnel proposed in congress, under which only half the fleet could be fully manned, would establish a ratio of 2-2-2. So far as relative fighting efficiency is concerned, he said, it would amount to 4-2-2.

Admiral Sims expressed the hope that the "dreadful experience of the world war will lead eventually to international agreements that will insure perpetual peace."

"At present," he said, "this is a hope only. When this hope becomes a universal conviction there will be naval disarmament instead of navies maintained in readiness for war upon a carefully balanced ratio of fighting power."

"The retention of these powerful navies necessarily assumes the possibility of war, and it is therefore manifestly our duty to be prepared successfully to defend our country and defend our rights and national policies. A failure to do so, in the event of war, will inevitably result in sacrifices as inexcusable as those caused by our unpreparedness in the late war."

RADIO FOR THE FARMERS

CONSIDERED BY STATE

Secretary Leonard H. Healey of Woodstock, of the state board of agriculture has under consideration a plan for installing at the state capital a radio telephone outfit for sending marketing information among the farmers and market men of Connecticut. Secretary Healey thinks that the plan may be made practicable if at least half of the subscribers who now receive the weekly market bulletin from the marketing bureau of the board of agriculture will signify their willingness to install a receiving apparatus. There are at present 2,000 such subscribers on the lists of the marketing bureau.

It is estimated that the cost of installing this individual receiving apparatus will be fifty dollars, the expense to be borne by the farmer or marketman. Letters of inquiry as to whether they would be willing to accept the apparatus are to be sent to the 2,000 subscribers on the marketing bureau.

Under the present scheme the marketing bureau is leased three times a week from the office of the state board of agriculture. Subscribers to the bulletin located in all parts of the state are furnished this service free of charge by the state board of agriculture. Provided a sufficient number of subscribers are willing to install receiving sets, the marketing information will be dispensed daily.

Secretary Healey's plan contemplates the installation of a receiving set as well as a sending apparatus at the capital in order that the gathering of information, as well as its broadcasting may be carried out with maximum speed and efficiency.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable.

If you are suffering from eczema, or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subside itching, even of very eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

LOOKING INTO MOTHER'S INTERESTS IN GROTON

Argument on the demerit of Charles W. Morse, the New York shipbuilder, John Kennedy, 80 Chestnut St. employee, to be tried in connection with war time ship contracts, was postponed by the District of Columbia court in Washington Thursday night. April 5, United States Attorney Gordon has gone to New York and Groton, Conn., to further investigate the case.

Simbury.—Mrs. Mary A. Robbins, widow of Horace Wolcott Robbins, and mother of Augusta Robbins Barry, of this place, who died Oct. 18, 1919, left an estate of $27,334.12.

BARRED PLYMOUTH ROCKS

IN THE LEAD AT STORRS
The hens in the laying contest at Storrs are still pushing along at the rate of nearly 500 eggs a week in excess of the expected production for this season of the year. During the last two weeks Barred Rocks relegated to the rear the rest of the breeds. The first week in April is a different story, E. P. Fisher's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Groton, Mass., were in first position with a yield of 81 eggs. Harry G. Culver's pen of Barred Rocks from Westhampton Beach, L. I., was second best pen for the week with a score of 69 eggs. A pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Charles D. Pierce from Arnold Mills, R. I., tied for third place with two pens of Barred Rocks owned by Kocway Farm at Danvers, Conn., and the Ontario Agri College at Guelph, Ont. These three pens laid 55 eggs each during the week. Two pens of White Leghorns entered by J. Frank Dubois from Peacham, Vt., and Ekmoor Farm, from Lebanon, Pa., tied for fourth place with 57 eggs each. The total production for all pens was 4,831 eggs or a yield of 59 per cent. This is within 75 eggs of the highest weekly record ever made at Storrs.

Eastern poultrymen are facing the problem of lower egg prices and higher feed prices. The egg market is lower than for the last five years while at the same time the feed market has been climbing a little from the low level of last summer. High egg production therefore becomes an important factor in maintaining poultry profits. Mean while, certain individual flocks in nearly every flock are without the slightest scruple calmly willing away their time merely because they are broody. To see every egg laid in a loaf, some go broody only during or near the remainder of the year lay at a very creditable rate, the others however go broody repeatedly at somewhat regular intervals and lay only a few eggs between these broody periods. When hen is which is the question. Identification is easy by means of using celluloid leg bands. Label the broody hens with one of these celluloid rings and about the time it is necessary to get the third or fourth leg band on the same hen send it to the nearest poultryman who will no doubt be surprised to find in following this plan that many of their hens never go broody at all.

The four leading pens in each of the principal breeds are as follows:

"Florence Nightingale, R. N."

The same thrill that a man feels when he is first privileged to place "Ph. D." "LL. D." "M. D." or "D. D. S." after his name, comes to the young woman who has completed the course of training at a recognized training school for nurses and is authorized to put "R. N." after her name to signify that she is a "Registered Nurse" and qualified to go into any home or hospital and nurse back to health and strength the patient whom she is to serve.

As a follower in the footsteps of a woman who will be revered for all time, Florence Nightingale, every Registered Nurse has a right to feel as proud of her ability and skill as has the doctor with whom she will work most of the time.

"R. N." means something more than "Stenographer" or "Typist" or "Secretary". "R. N." is not something to be obtained in three or six months. It takes three years of study and practical application of the things you learn before you can write "R. N." after your name—but just ask any "R. N." you meet if it isn't worth it!

"R. N." Costs More — And It Pays More!

Like everything else worth while, it takes effort. But the rewards are so vastly greater than those of mediocre employment that Registered Nurses are in all truth, in a class by themselves.

A profession that will support you independently—or an education that will help you to be a better woman, a better wife and a finer mother. Do you want it?
A class in our training school will start soon. Come and talk it over with us.

HOME DEMONSTRATION

Activities in County

The home demonstration work program of the New London County Farm Bureau is being successfully carried out in the towns and villages of the county under Miss Gladys Stratton, home demonstration agent. Following is a summary of the activities by towns:

Baldie—Mrs. John Woods loaned the use of her home one afternoon and evening for two groups to meet and make dress forms. One meeting was also held at the home of Mrs. Martin and the girls group met one evening at Mrs. Cronin's.

With Miss Elsie Trubus, assistant state club leader, a conference was held with Mrs. J. G. Durr, in regard to organizing a junior clothing club in Baldie. Mrs. Durr will act as local leader. We also talked over plans with Sister Yarrow at the convent where a club will be started in September.

Groton—The series of meetings on clothing topics being given by Miss Mason, clothing specialist, from the Connecticut Agricultural College, has been completed. There were twelve meetings in the group which met at the homes of some of the members.

Lebanon—A meeting of the Health Gain and Growth Club was held in the Waterman school. Miss Sullivan, the teacher is acting as local leader, assisted by Mrs. Elsie Waterman. The club is making very good progress, as practically every member has gained in weight since November and one member has already gone over the top. Mrs. Marion E. Dakin, nutrition specialist, gave a short talk on the subject of the meeting and arranged for work to be carried on until the next meeting. A cooking club is being organized in Groton with a group of girls in charge. Mrs. R. York will act as leader with Mrs. J. T. Thomas and Mrs. E. H. McCall on the committee. The meetings are to be held at Mrs. York's home and will commence in April. Miss Elsie Trubus, junior club leader from the Connecticut Agricultural College, met Mrs. York this month and went over the plan for the club with her.

Ledyard—The community club at Gales Ferry has taken out a membership in the New London County Farm and Home Bureau and a local committee on the part of the club.

Stonington—The community club at Gales Ferry has taken out a membership in the New London County Farm and Home Bureau and a local committee on the part of the club.

Waterford—Two well attended meetings have been held in the town recently. At the first the demonstration was arranged for by Mrs. G. F. Radway and held at the Colman chapel at which there were thirty-two present and twelve forms were made. The ladies served a lunch at noon and work was continued until late in the afternoon.
